[The page contains several lines of horizontal text that are illegible due to extreme blurring.]

Blank document with horizontal lines.

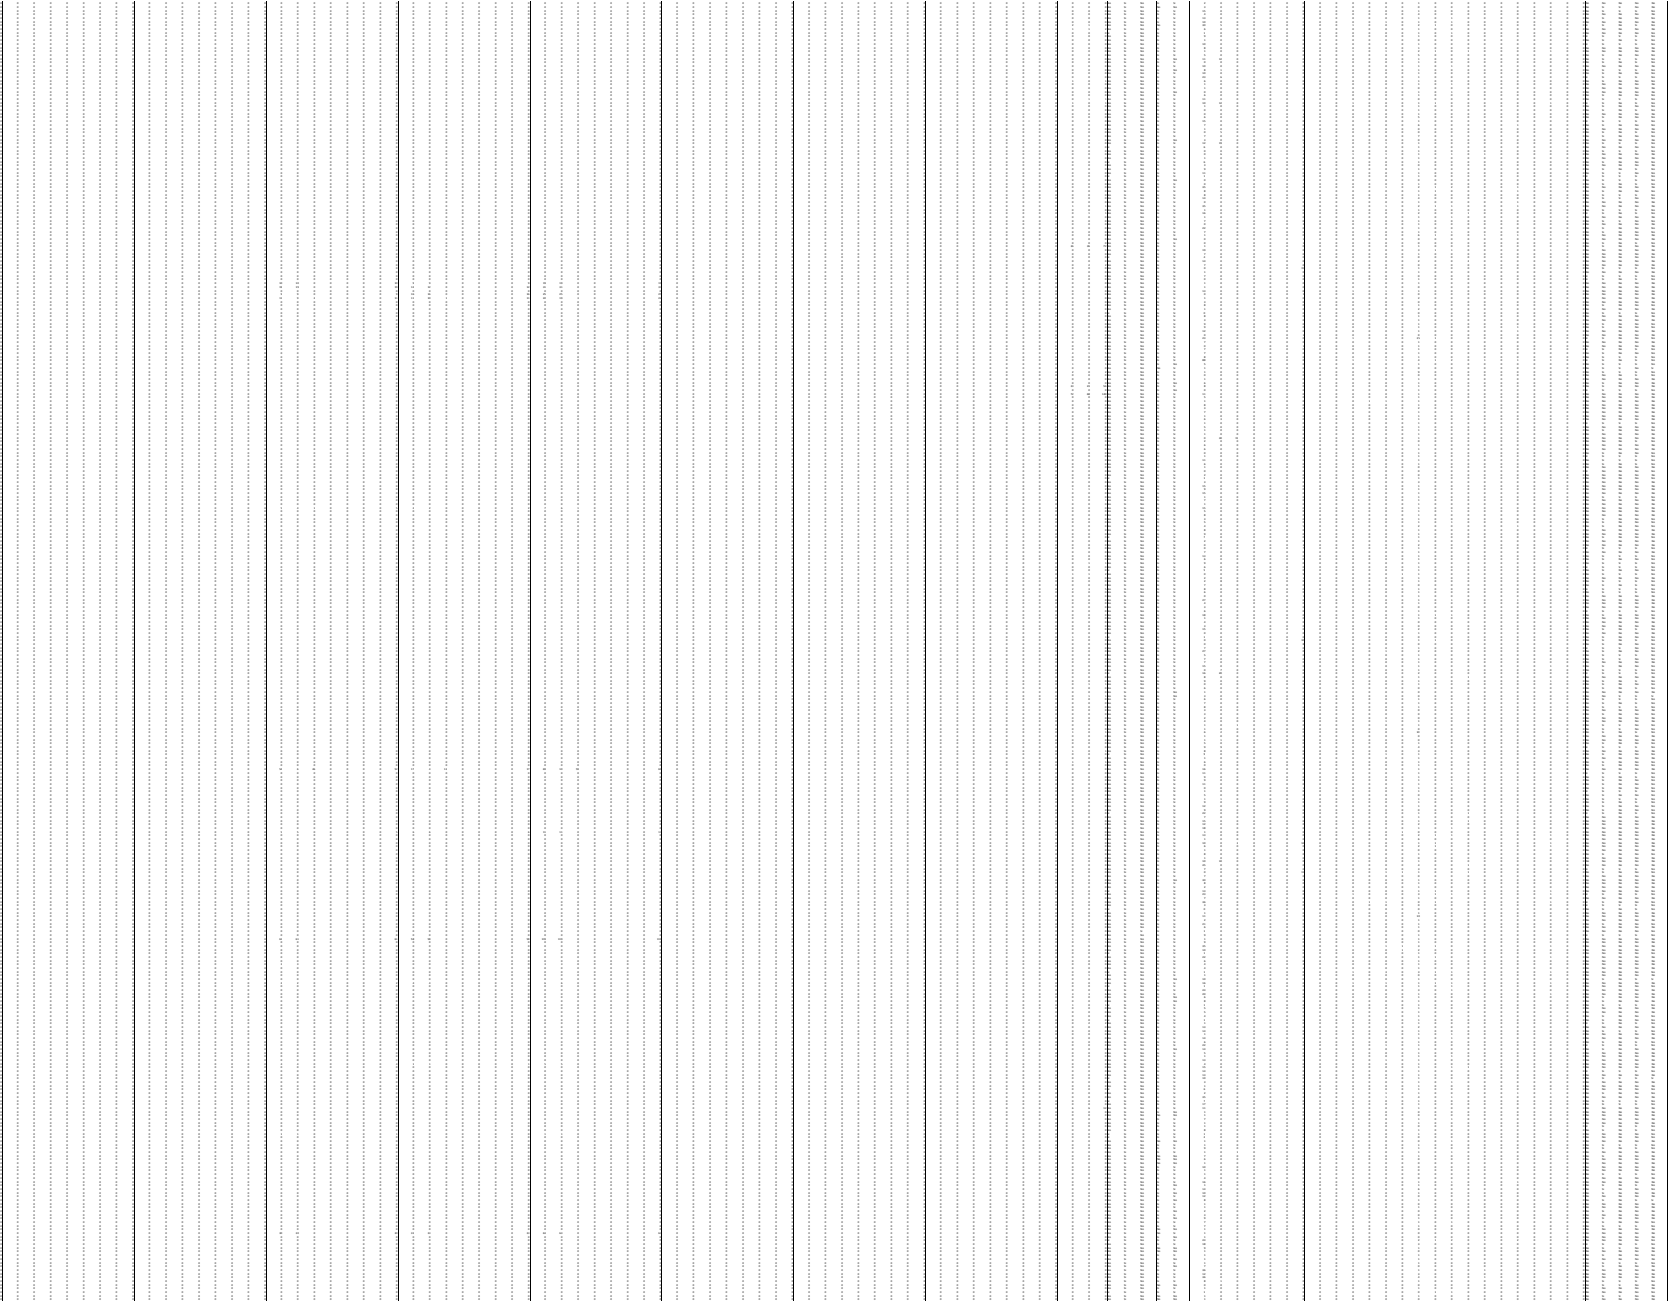

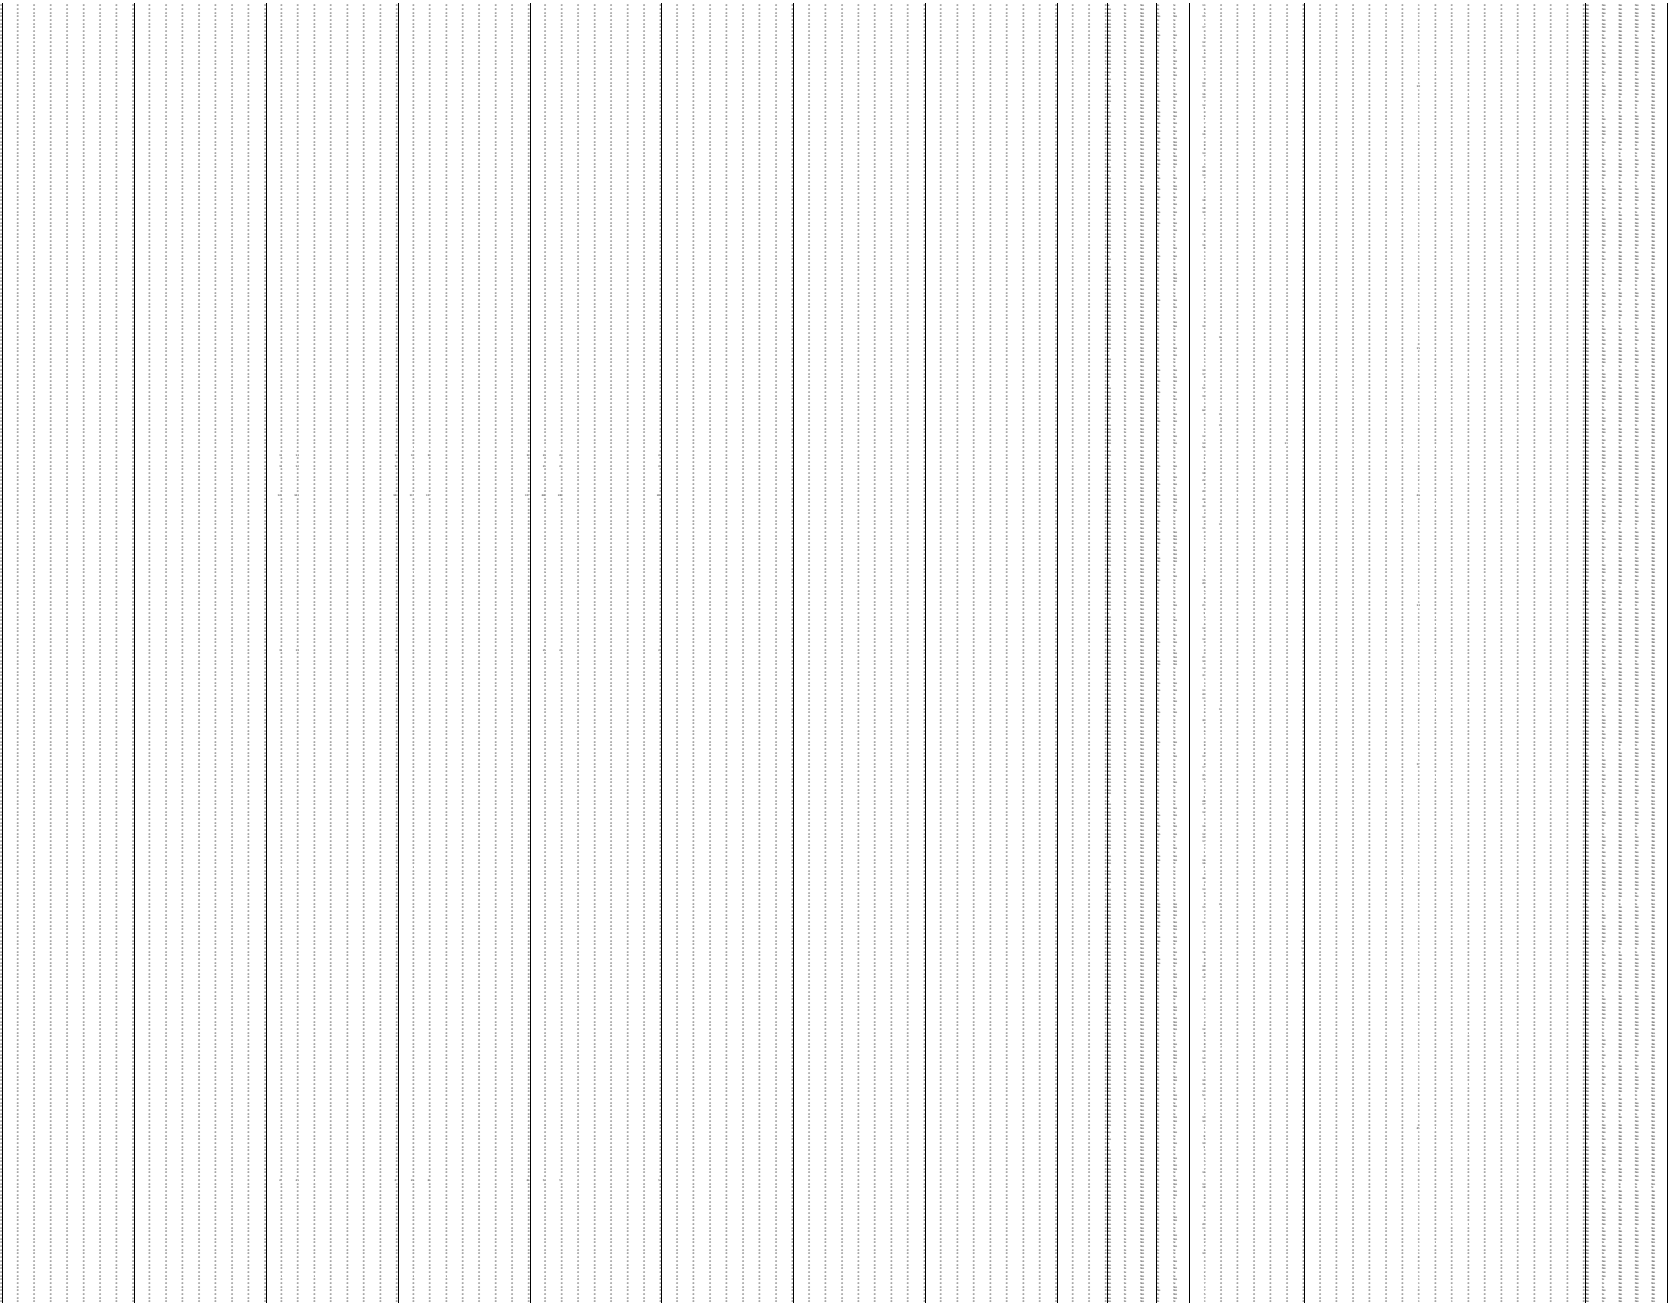

Blank lined page for notes.

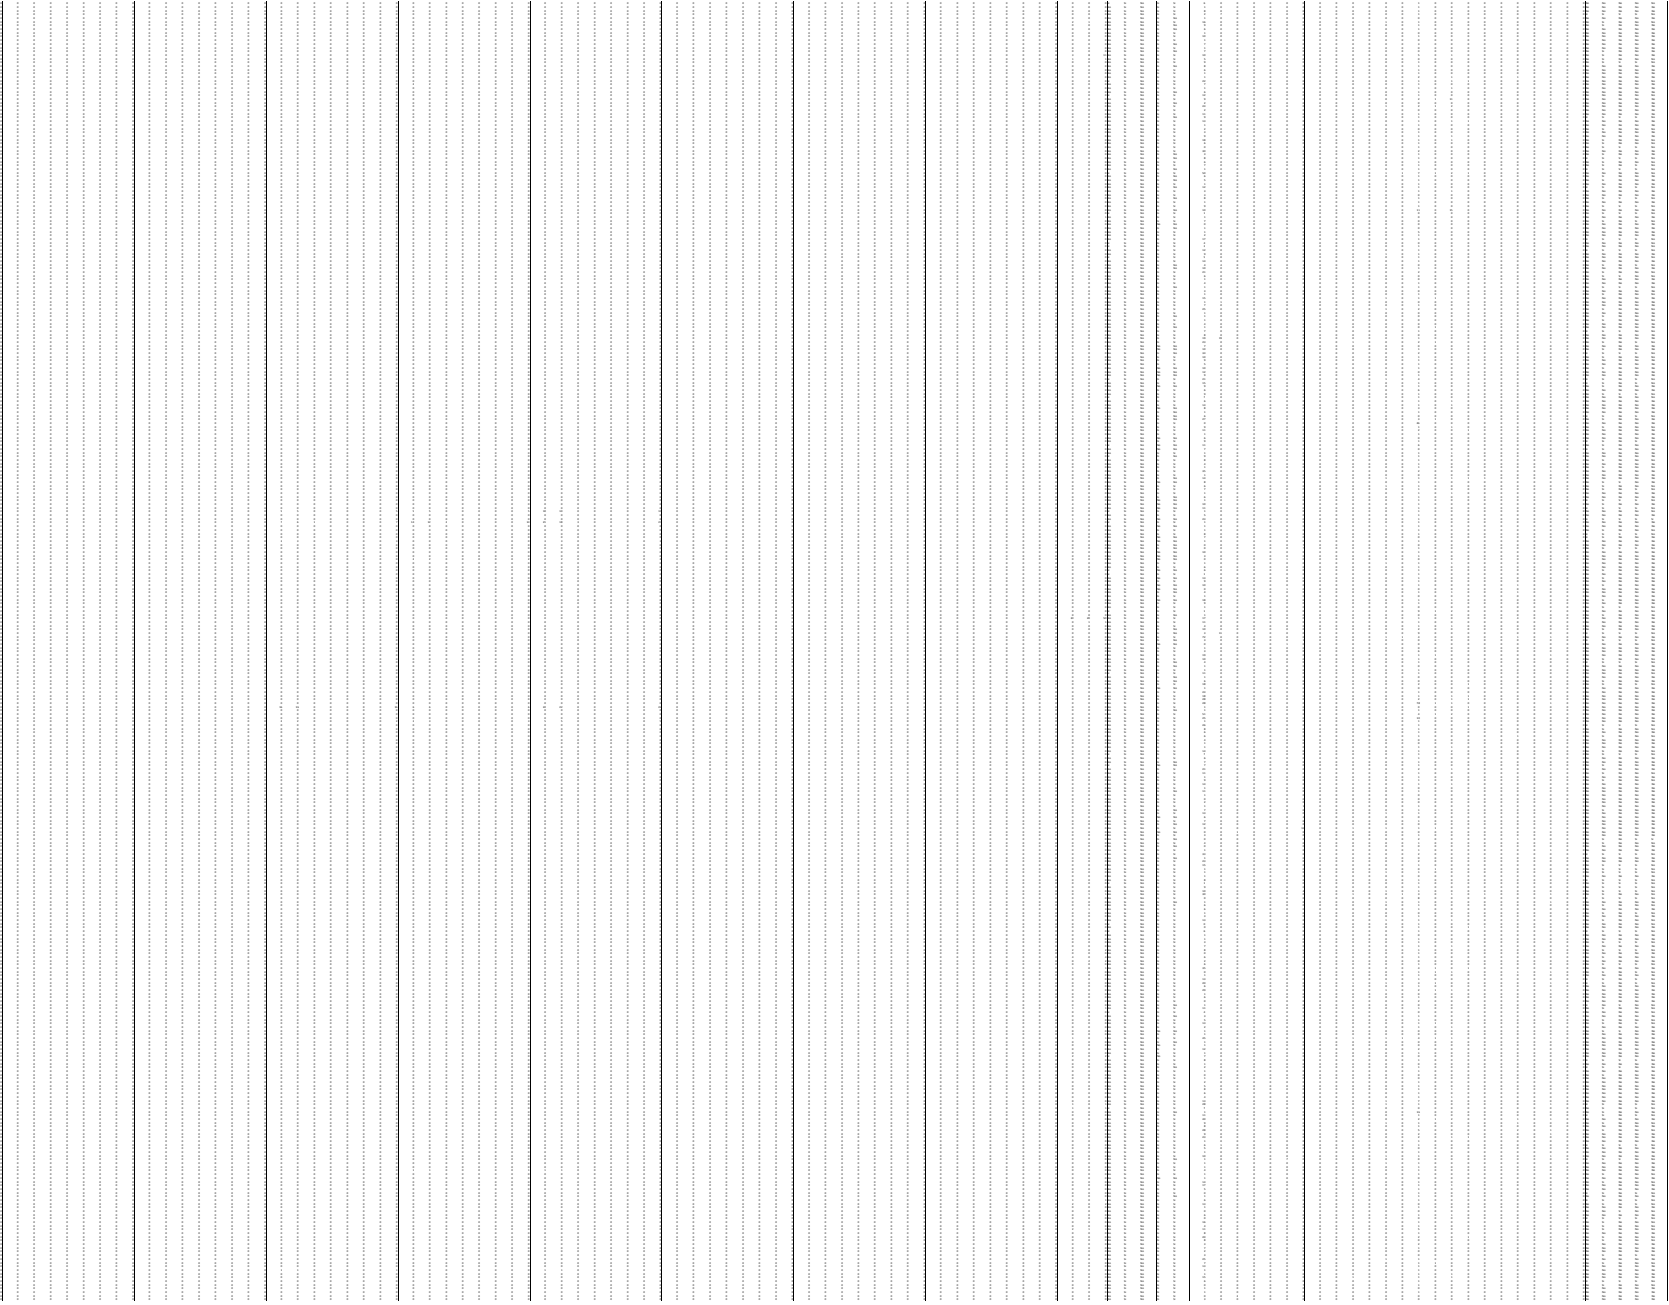

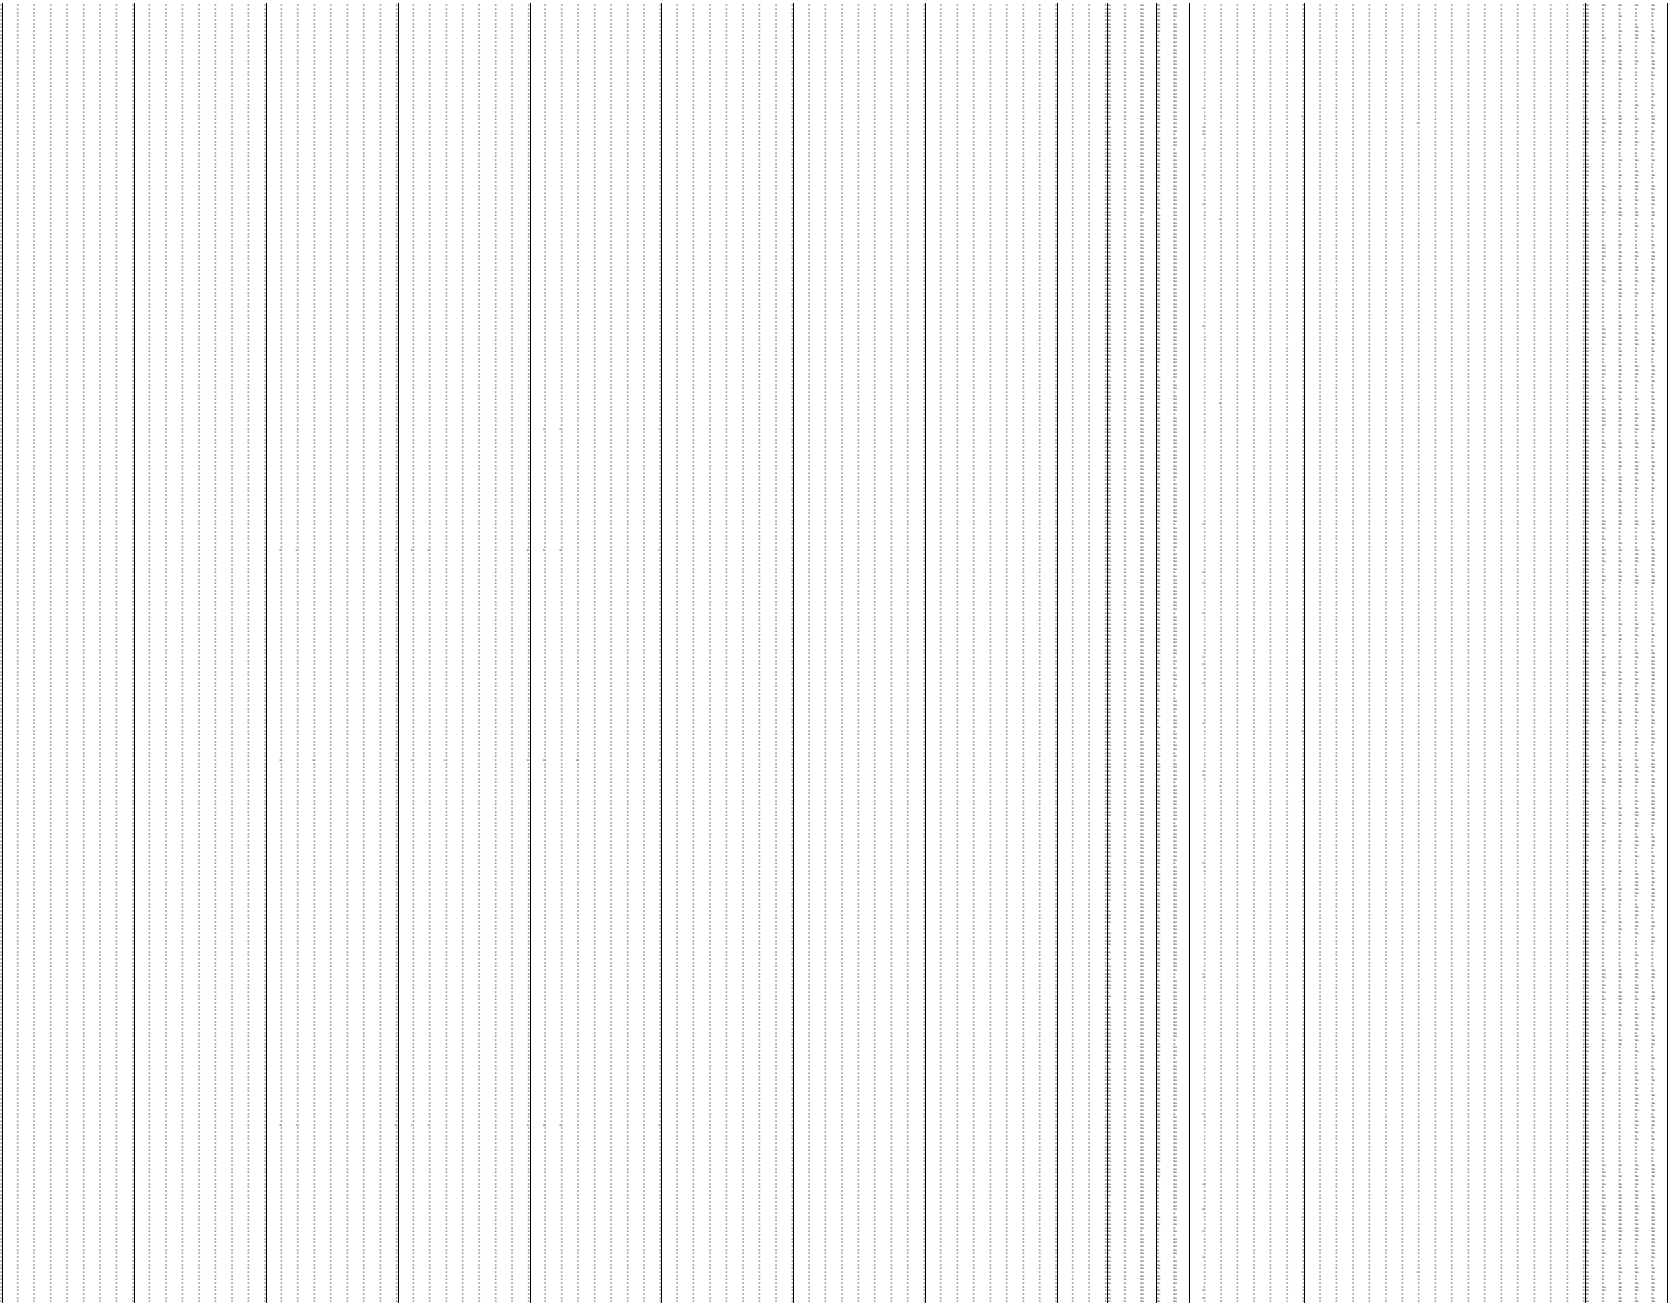

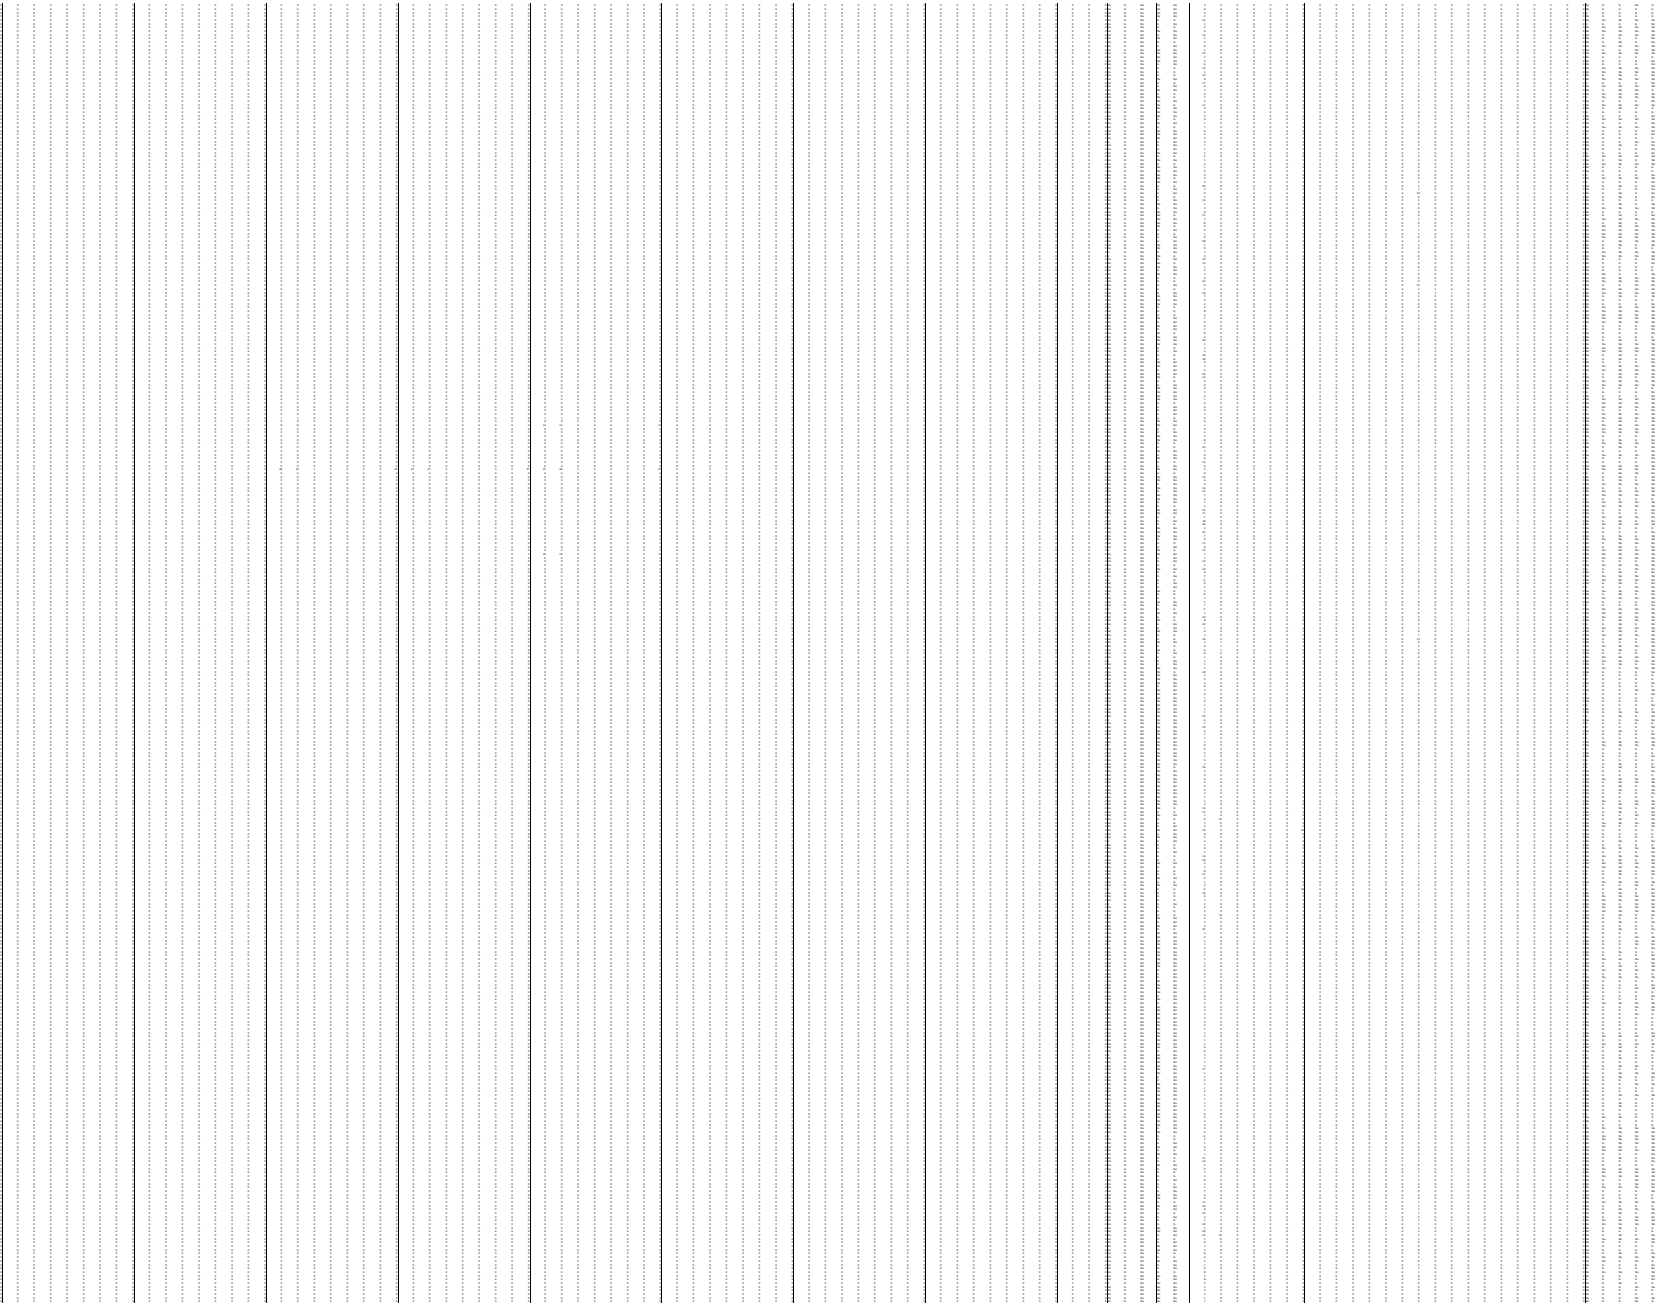

This page contains multiple sections of horizontal lines, typical of a lined notebook or a form for writing. The lines are arranged in several groups, separated by gaps. The first group at the top consists of approximately 24 lines. Below this, there is a gap, followed by another group of 24 lines. This pattern of 24-line sections with gaps repeats down the page. The bottom-most section also consists of 24 lines.
